

SPURS' OLYMPIC STADIUM HOPES LIVE ON

Club continues battle to move as it appeals West Ham FC decision

By Dominique Stafford

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR have won the right to challenge the decision to give the Olympic Stadium to West Ham United.

Spurs also want to turn the stadium in Stratford into their new home after the conclusion of the 2012 Olympics, and last Wednesday saw them – along with Leyton Orient – return to the High Court in a second attempt to secure a judicial review into the Olympic Park Legacy Company's ruling that the stadium in Stratford should be handed over to West Ham FC following the 2012 Olympics.

Tottenham believe that the promise by Newham Council – that it would loan £40million to West Ham as part of the deal – gave them an unfair advantage; and judge Mr Justice Collins ruled they had an arguable case.

Baroness Ford, OPLC chairman, said: "We are delighted Mr Justice Collins upheld all grounds relating to the decision-making process when recommending a preferred bidder.

"We are disappointed that permission for a judicial review has been granted on some limited points, but we are confident in our case."

The original decision to award the stadium to West Ham was made in February after serious concerns were raised over Tottenham's plans to rip up the athletics track. A full court hearing is now set to begin on October 18.

However, Spurs are also actively pursuing their plans for the Northumberland Park project, which would see them build a new ground next to their current home in White Hart Lane.

The club have already received planning permission for the development and are believed to be involved in negotiations with London mayor Boris Johnson over potential funding for the scheme.

Tottenham leaders are worried about the impact if Spurs leave the area, and MP David Lammy has called for government aid to help keep Spurs in the borough – and threatened legal action to stop the club using the name Tottenham if they leave.

A Spurs spokesman said: "The club continues to hold discussions and negotiations with both local and national government bodies in order to determine an optimum and feasible stadium solution."

Celebrations as schools excel in A-level results

THERE were smiles all around the borough as teenage students finally got their hands on their A-level results.

Nervous students piled through the school gates in droves, with the vast majority sweating on securing places at their first-choice universities.

But many were soon celebrating and, judging by the provisional figures available, Haringey's scholars have yet again excelled at their studies.

Eighteen-year-old Jemimah Norman, who studied at Haringey Sixth Form Centre, was "totally shocked" to get an A* in English literature, an A* in sociology and an A in art. She said: "I knew I'd pass, but I never thought I'd do this well." She now plans to study a degree in anthropology at Goldsmiths college.

Also on their way to university is Tola Ariyo who achieved an A* in history, A* in politics and a B in law. Tola said: "My mum is going to be delighted." Tola has a guaranteed place at the London School Of Economics to study law.

"I'm going to be a barrister. I haven't decided whether to specialise in corporate or commercial law as I need to get a bit more experience of both areas. I can't wait though."

June Jarrett, principal of Haringey Sixth Form Centre, said the results this year were "just brilliant" and that she was delighted that so many of her students already had plans for further studies.

She said: "I'm totally thrilled for our students. They've worked so hard and done so well."

"You have to remember that a lot of these students have not had privileged backgrounds and have often had to overcome a lot of difficulties to maintain their studies. We have students now going on to LSE and Central St Martins College of Art. I'm so proud."

"The determination and the hard work these students have put in is what this area is really about - this is the real Tottenham."

Claire Kober, leader of Haringey Council, visited Alexandra Park School and Haringey Sixth Form Centre to congratulate students on their results. She said: "I've been incredibly impressed by the students' aspirations for the future. I've heard about plans to study law, design, history, politics, English and journalism at colleges and universities all over the country. The options available to these students for their futures are now so vast - it's an exciting time for them."

"It's important too, to remember the hard work of the staff at our schools and colleges. It's an indication of their commitment to their pupils that they're nearly as happy as the students are about their results."

As Tottenham recovers from the rioting that left homes and businesses devastated, Claire Kober, leader of Haringey Council, writes to residents

We can build a better future on our streets

To the people of Haringey

ONE of the lasting images etched in my memory from the past couple of challenging weeks for Tottenham and the rest of the borough will be the sight of volunteers and council staff helping people seeking support at the Community Assistance Centre set up at Tottenham Green.

In many cases these were people who had lost everything, having fled the riots with just the clothes on their backs. In others, they were business people who had lost their livelihoods as had the people working for them.

In all cases, they simply needed someone to help them. That the community pulled together to help so many of these people through this unprecedented crisis is a tribute to the generosity shown by many local people – whether demonstrated by the piles of food, clothes and other goods handed out by local volunteers or the urgent housing, business and other advice provided by council teams and voluntary groups.

Then there were the impressive financial contributions made to the Tottenham Fund – from the pound coins deposited in buckets to hundreds more from shops and other businesses – which saw the fund reach more than £20,000 in a matter of days.

To all of these people, I would like to say a very heartfelt thank you for your generosity.

What we saw in the aftermath of that terrible August weekend was the true spirit of the vast majority of Tottenham and Haringey people – the kind of spirit which will see us recover from recent events and build a better future.

Yours faithfully,

Councillor Claire Kober
Leader of the council

Message of thanks: Claire Kober has expressed her appreciation for all those who helped tidy up after the carnage of the Tottenham riots, right

Applications for relief are welcome

RESIDENTS affected by the recent Tottenham riots are being invited to apply for financial help from a fund established by Haringey Council.

Money has poured into the account from well-wishers to help those made homeless, as well as a huge amount of donations of practical items such as clothing, baby products and furniture.

The Tottenham Fund, which now stands at £23,000, is open to both local individuals and businesses who can show that they have suffered financially as a result of the disturbances. Payments could cover the loss of items such as personal possessions and business equipment – and would normally be up to a maximum of £500.

Applications will be considered by a panel of council officials, with recommendations then made to leading councillors.

Application forms are available from the director of adults and housing at 40 Cumberland Road, Wood Green, or at www.haringey.gov.uk/fundapplication

Serhat's antics as a rapper earn him photo final place

A YOUNGSTER is over the moon after learning his photo has been awarded a prize in Mencap's nationwide film and photography competition.

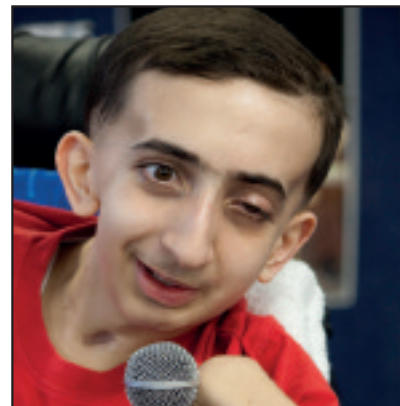

Student Serhat Uysal, 16, is one of six finalists chosen for a preview of the competition, where all the entries are taken either of or by a person with a learning disability.

A picture of him rapping was taken by his special needs assistant Edyta Janczyk and entered into the competition.

Serhat, who was born with cerebral palsy, lives with his parents and younger sister in Tottenham Hale. Two years ago he had a spinal cord injury and became totally dependent on a wheelchair.

However, he has always enjoyed music and is a keen rapper and singer. He said: "Music can change my mood for the better when I'm feeling miserable. We do singing in school every Monday and Tuesday and my special needs assistant Edyta took a picture when I was rapping. I don't really rap since my accident but I have always enjoyed music."

Anthony McKenzie, Serhat's support co-ordinator, said: "Serhat has found it very challenging to attend school since his injury. He was chosen to become a junior martial arts instructor and would have been a big part of a BBC documentary, but unfortunately, he had to pull out at the last minute. He has really enjoyed entering Snap! and is delighted to be chosen as a winner. It really means a lot to him."

Delighted: 16-year-old Serhat Uysal

Serhat added: "When I was first told that I had been selected as one of the winners for Mencap's competition Snap! I was left speechless! I am really excited about attending the ceremony."

Winners will be awarded prizes at the Rich Mix arts centre in Shoreditch on September 13.

Serhat has just finished a National Open college network course and is due to start at Haringey Sixth Form Centre in September.

Application forms are available at www.haringey.gov.uk/fundapplication or call 020 8489 8345 for a form to be sent to you by post.

Applications will be considered by an independent panel of local people.

The Tottenham Fund is still open for donations. Contributions can be made in the following ways:

School band is all grown up for single

OUT of the adolescent dreams of Mango Groovy arises... Alberteen!

For the majority who might not have heard of the former group, Mango Groovy was the school band for Adrian Berry.

Then 14, he used to play keyboards for an interestingly named outfit which actually did far better than most school bands by supporting Primal Scream on tour.

Unfortunately, like most teen groups, Mango Groovy folded and the band members went their separate ways: vocalist Phil Shaw became an English professor, guitarist John Rose went into "something to do with paper" while Adrian became the artistic director of Jacksons Lane arts centre in Highgate.

That was until the trio met again a few years back and added top drummer Gareth Warden. Adrian switched to bass and formed Alberteen – a group which now looks to be on the verge of some serious success if the radio play of their latest single, Girl And A Gun, is anything to go by.

"We've had some great exposure on BBC Radio 6, where we were the session band of choice during

Together again: Adrian Berry with vocalist Phil Shaw, new drummer Gareth Warden and guitarist John Rose – Alberteen

August, and were the track of the day on Amazing Radio last week," said Adrian. "We've also getting played in stations across America, where they've picked up on the Sarah Palin references."

Observing a picture of the right-wing politician with a machine gun, and waking up in the middle of the night with an infectious riff in his head, singer Phil put the two together and with his bandmates created the addictive track that is guaranteed to remain in your brain after just one listen.

"It's very poppy, has a John Barry feel, and we have every confidence," said Adrian. "But we won't be going on a world tour just yet so I will be fine running Jacksons Lane and performing with the band. It's good to be involved in so much creativity!"

Stage school is set for creative change

EXPRESS yourself at the newest performing arts school in town.

Called the Ministry Of Expression, it's a three-hour Saturday morning school aimed at six to 18-year-olds specialising in the three essential disciplines of drama, dance and singing.

Opening its doors on Saturday, September 24 it will be based at Chase Side Primary School in Enfield and run by exuberant teachers Matthew Herd and Debbie Petrou.

"We are not looking to follow the rigid structure of most weekend drama schools," said Matthew. "And we will seek as much input as possible from the students to make decisions on what is learned each term and what we work towards. Therefore we will be teaching street and urban dance alongside ballet, tap, jazz and modern."

In addition drama classes will feature screenplays on the billing with Shakespeare and Brecht, while singing classes aim to "incorporate more of a Glee club style of working on mainstream hits while combining artists such as Frank Sinatra and Nina Simone".

What's more, next year the Ministry plans to launch an adult learning centre which will include all types of dancing, singing, a repertory theatre company and a range of creative writing, poetry and art classes.

Expressing themselves: Matthew Herd and Debbie Petrou

Go to www.ministryofexpression.com for further details and to register for classes.

● We've teamed up with Matthew and Debbie to offer one lucky youngster the chance to enjoy three terms at the Ministry for free!

This exclusive prize, worth £750, is available for anyone who registers their names on the Ministry's website between now and the official opening. A name will be picked at random and the future star of stage and screen will be featured in the paper.

with Jonathan Lovett

FEMINISM and capitalism intertwine like guilty lovers in Caryl Churchill's masterpiece.

Produced in 1982, Top Girls is an invigorating forum of debate set at a time when Margaret Thatcher was just beginning to bare her teeth, society was no such thing and greed was good.

It also shows Churchill as the great theatrical innovator, in a heady blend of surrealism and realism that blazed a path for other writers to follow.

In a bravura opening Marlene celebrates her promotion at the Top Girls employment agency by hosting a dinner party for six famous fictional or historical women. A seismic shift then occurs as we are transported to Marlene's office before finding ourselves in a backyard, observing two girls at play.

Max Stafford-Clark – director of the original – brings the best out of a terrific ensemble led by the sizzling Suranne Jones as the mighty Marlene.

The Thick Of It's Olivia Poulet is virtually unrecognisable as a Flemish peasant and a truculent teen, while Catherine McCormack nimbly leaps from a 13th-century concubine to a 1980s ball-breaker in style.

ADEBAYOR TIPS SPURS TO SHINE

By Dominique Stafford

ON-LOAN striker Emmanuel Adebayor insists that Tottenham Hotspur can still make a big impact in the Premier League this season despite their woeful start to the campaign.

The former Arsenal front man arrived on a year-long loan deal from Manchester City on Thursday, but was forced to watch from the stands on Sunday as his parent club thrashed Spurs 5-1 at White Hart Lane to leave them rooted to the foot of the table heading into the international break.

But Adebayor, who has previously been the target of abuse from Tottenham fans due to his time at their bitter north London rivals, believes that it is only a matter of time before their fortunes improve.

"Tottenham have always been a good club," he said. "I know a lot of the players and I have a lot of friends there, so when I got the call to come and join the club and to help the club achieve what they want to achieve I quickly said yes.

"Harry Redknapp is a great manager and a great person. As a footballer it is really important to work with a person who really understands you, which is the key for me – and he's one of the few who really understands me.

"There are a lot of good players here and I'm here to do my job, score goals, play football and enjoy myself once again on the pitch.

"I'm at a club where everyone has confidence in me, everyone trusts me and everyone knows what I'm capable of doing – it's up to me to show them that they are not wrong. To finish in the top four is not going to be easy, but I think that we've got the squad."

Boss Redknapp is expected to try to bring in several new faces before the transfer window shuts tonight in the wake of Sunday's crushing defeat, and Spurs were believed to be on the verge of signing reigning Footballer of the Year Scott Parker from West Ham United when the Advertiser went to press.

Out to impress: Emmanuel Adebayor believes he can make an impact

Season ends in disappointment for the Skolars

THE London Skolars' season came to a disappointing conclusion as they were beaten 30-12 at home by the high-flying Keighley Cougars in their final match in rugby league's Co-operative Championship One on Friday.

The Skolars can reflect on a much-improved campaign which has seen them finish well clear of the bottom of the table and pick up a respectable total of 21 points.

But they were unable to bow out on a high as they fell away badly after opening up an early lead against their second-placed visitors.

The kick-off was delayed for half an hour after the visitors got held up in heavy traffic, but the disruption did not initially seem to affect them as Jason Demetriou scored the opening try after just four minutes.

However, the Skolars hit back well as John Paxton and Austen Aggrey both crossed the line in quick succession – with Dylan Skee converting both scores to leave them 12-4 ahead.

This proved to be as good as it got for the hosts, with Ryan Benjafield and Brendan Rawlins scoring converted tries for Keighley as they moved 16-12 in front by the interval.

And the second period was dominated by the visitors as they crossed the line three more times while preventing the Skolars from adding to their score.

Jake Normington (two) and Gavin Duffy claimed the tries, with Danny Lawton adding a penalty.
